Cell # 3 provides a statement that the provider makes about its services.

The three cells on the lower portion of the table give the results of an annual evaluation of providers' services in the 2011-2012 school year, conducted by the Center for Research in Education Policy (CREP), University of Memphis. The full report is available at http://tn.gov/education/fedprog/doc/SESTN07\_08ReportFINAL\_000.pdf.

Cell # 1 – STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT: Shows the provider's effectiveness in raising student achievement on the state tests in reading, language arts, and mathematics. Results may be listed as follows:

- a. Insufficient data: There was not enough information available that would indicate effectiveness. This could mean that the provider tutored small numbers of students or achievement test scores were not available for students.
- b. Above Standards: There is evidence that tutored students are making substantive achievement gains.
- b. Acceptable: There is evidence that tutored students are making achievement gains.
- c. Marginal Quality: There is some evidence that some tutored students are making achievement gains.
- d. Below Standards in Student Achievement: Students have not shown gains after tutoring. Results are statistically significant and favor non-SES students.

Cell # 2 – CUSTOMER SATISFACTION: Shows the results of survey responses from parents, teachers, principals, school system SES coordinators, and SES providers.

- a. Insufficient data: There was not enough information available. This could mean that a small number of parents, teachers, principals, SES coordinators, and providers responded to the survey.
- b. Communication: Survey respondents' perception of how well the provider communicated with parents, teachers, and principals about students' progress.
- c. Instructional Plan: Survey respondents' perception of how well the provider planned to meet each student's academic needs.
- d. Local and State Standards: Survey respondents' perception of how well the provider aligned its tutoring to the school district and state standards for student learning.
- e. Special Education and ELL Students: Survey respondents' perception of how well the provider served the needs of special education and English Language Learners (ELL).
- f. Assessment of provider overall: Survey respondents' overall satisfaction with the provider's services.

Cell # 3 – A statement that the provider makes about its services.

Tutors review notes from teacher and home to align our program to any program at school site. Students complete "bellwork" activity based on the last tutoring session; tutors explain the instructional activities to students, noting any weakness in any of the target skills. Tutors record target concepts and materials on the weekly progress report. Activities include group and individual interaction. Tutors review the target noted on the ILP and choose an activity to strengthen the target skill. Each student works on their individual assignments. Tutors review the day's material and plan instructional activities for the next tutoring session. An observer would hear the tutor's instruction, the student's interacting, and quiet time when students are working individually.

Evaluation Results The provider was approved in July 2011 and was not part of the most recent evaluation.		The provider says this about its services: Creating Diamonds session begins the moment the students enter the room. Pre-tests from a research-based curriculum will be administered to determine the strengths and or weaknesses. Because pre-tests will be aligned to TN state standards, the test will be scored immediately. An IEP will be developed for each student. Parents, student and tutor will determine the Grade Level Expectations and goals. Our staff will monitor to ensure that tutors use differentiation of instruction while using higher levels of thinking.
